Protest Against Ecoport Policy

Imagine a database claiming that it is knowledge sharing database, presenting Dr. Nelson Mandela and Prof.E.O.Wilson as patrons, saying that three big funding agencies including UN's FAO are supporting it.

Now imagine a free lance researcher contributing 650,000 pages in Ecoport with over 33,000 pictures, over 2500 earticles, over 80,000 Interactive Tables, hundreds of references and entities for common people.

and now imagine that Ecoport suddenly closes its door for common people. All search engine crawlers restricted. Then out of over 80,000 interactive tables started showing only 500. Over 79,500 tables having valuable information about Type II Diabetes are not visible. Only God knows what Ecoport is doing with this information.

When that researcher raised objection against this policy, Ecoport supervisor used derogatory terms and took researcher's power of editing material contributed by him.

Feeling cheated the researcher raised his voice against this injustice through his blog named "Protest against Ecoport Policy." He simply request Ecoport to share the knowledge with common people as promised in database or return the contributions so that it can be presented again through other databases like EOL and CGBD for common people.

Unfortunately I am that researcher, cheated by Ecoport openly.

Please read this interview to get all details about this protest.
